The Symposium is fast approaching. Register now to participate in this important event for the nation's justice, public safety and first responder community. This event brings together nearly 1,000 practitioners from across the nation to explore information sharing and the exchange of critical data, information and intelligence between the local, state and federal jurisdictions in support of justice public safety and homeland security.

Features and Highlights

- U.S. Attorney General Alberto R. Gonzales has been invited as a keynote speaker on Monday, March 13.
- More than 100 expert speakers are slated to bring attendees the information they need to learn about, strategically plan for, implement and manage critical information and intelligence sharing systems. They will highlight successful strategies, best practices, tools, resources, models and lessons learned in information sharing initiatives throughout the nation.
- Byrne JAG and NCHIP grant funds may be used to cover Symposium travel, registration, and per diem expenses.

-MORE-

- Important cutoff dates: February 10 for early registration ($100 savings) and February 17 (hotel room block at government per diem). Even if you need additional time to get your registration in order, go ahead and make your hotel room reservations as early as possible so that you can lock in the discounted rate!

The 2006 Symposium is sponsored by: SEARCH, The National Consortium for Justice Information and Statistics, and The Bureau of Justice Assistance, U.S. Department of Justice.
