

Arkansas

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

California

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	Yes, This would include Youth Organizations and Human Resource Agencies pursuant to California Penal code Section 11105.3
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	Yes

Connecticut

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Delaware

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	Yes, but no one is doing is yet.
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	No need for legislation to do it in Delaware.

Florida

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	Yes
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	No

Georgia

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Hawaii

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	Yes
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	No

Idaho

Idaho has not established a policy regarding submission by private agencies. At this time, no public agency is submitting applicant cards via livescan. Eventually, we implement a policy by administrative rule rather than legislation.

Indiana

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Iowa

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Kansas

Kansas doesn't have any private agencies submitting fingerprints via live scan. In all likelihood we would accept live scan fingerprints from any agency that wanted to support such a link to the repository. I do not believe we would need legislation to allow this to happen in our state. We are considering live scan workstations for motor carrier licensing under the U.S. Patriots Act. The Kansas Department of Transportation may install live scan machines at regional offices around the state to fingerprint truck drivers for hazmat certification.
---	--

Kentucky

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Louisiana

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Maryland

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	Yes, this relates only to the technique used to roll the print. I have nothing to do with the submission. Private agencies use livescan, but submit the livescan cards via U.S. mail
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	No

Michigan

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	We allow private agencies to submit applicant prints. In the future they will be stored on our AFIS and will create a history file. If there is a management control agreement they could also submit criminal to AFIS and CCH
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	The only legislation we had to change is the fact to allow us to store the applicant records.

Minnesota

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No, It is not a question of us not allowing it, but rather a question of us not currently doing it, We do not have an automated workflow for background checks, except for criminal justice employment.
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Nevada

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	Yes, No statute to preclude it.
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	No

New Hampshire

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

New Mexico

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Oklahoma

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Oregon

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No, We currently do not receive any electronic submissions from the private sector, simply because no one out there has a livescan or deadscan device and if they did it would have to be compatible with our current technology and standards. We are currently in a position that we have not addressed whether we will allow or prohibit submission. We do receive electronic submission from Indian Tribes relative to Indian Gaming Regulation. Legislation will not be needed to authorize this agency to make these types of decisions. I suppose if we made an unpopular decision the private sector could approach the legislature and move a bill
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

South Carolina

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No, not at this time.
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

South Dakota

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Texas

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Utah

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Vermont

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No, We do not accept any fingerprint cards unless they are from a Law Enforcement Agency
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Virginia

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	Yes
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	No

Washington

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	No
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	N/A

Wisconsin

1. Does your state allow private agencies to submit fingerprints by livescan to your state criminal history repository?	Yes, We don't receive any electronic applicant cards today, but we are upgrading our AFIS to do so this fall. We will allow private agencies to submit.
2. If your answer is yes, was legislation necessary to authorize this transfer?	No, There are no legislative prohibitions